

Gaelic in the Landscape

Did you know 'Contin' meant 'the confluence of the waters' in Gaelic? And 'Strathpeffer' is 'the wide and shallow valley of the bright and shining river'?

Have you ever looked at a map and wondered what the names of our local landmarks mean?

Come along on SATURDAY 7th SEPTEMBER to a FREE 'Gaelic in the Landscape' workshop - led by renowned writer and broadcaster Roddy Maclean - where we'll be looking at maps, finding out the meaning of the names of what's around us, and hearing about some the folklore and stories of our local landscape.

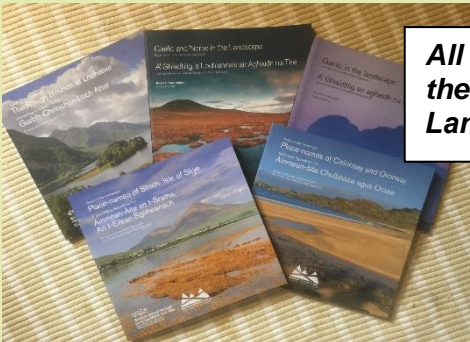

There are two sessions:

An indoor morning map-based workshop (in Strathpeffer); and an afternoon outdoor walk (in Contin)

Booking is essential for each session via Eventbrite:

Morning <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/gaelic-in-the-landscape-workshop-strathpeffer-tickets-65663536405>

Afternoon <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/gaelic-in-the-landscape-workshop-contin-tickets-65664986743>

All participants will also receive these fantastic 'Gaelic in the Landscape' books!

Contact
PhilBaarda@hotmail.com

Thanks are due to

Bòrd na Gàidhlig,
Contin Community Council, and Strathpeffer
Community Council
for making both these events happen.

BÒRD NA
GÀIDHLIG

